SERGT. McMAHON SAYS CEDERLOF SHOT SELF FORT STREET STORE IS BURGLARIZED

BOLD BURGLARS LOOT STORE ON DOWNTOWN CORNER

Smashing in a window on the Hotel street side with a beer bottle, bold burglars last night began the loot of Harry Culman's curio and jewelry shop on the corner of Hotel and Fort streets. They made a haul of about $1400 worth of stuff, according to reports from the police this morning, got away scot-free, and perhaps with more than the amount of loss so far checked up. It is the latest burglary case in years. The police believe the window was cracked about 2:30 o'clock this morning, but how the burglars could have made their entrance and their exit, with pedestrians on the street all night and two lights burning in the Fort street window of the shop, is more than the sleuths have been able to figure out.

Chief McDuffie this morning informed that the guilty men will be caught before long, and it is said that one man is either held on suspicion now or is under close surveillance.

Among the articles stolen from the Culman store are Hawaiian enameled plates, jade, studs and many valuable curios. It is expected that they will be located by the chief. In addition to arresting the burglars or those who were present when the burglary was committed.

SENSATION SPRUNG AT TRIAL

That Sergeant H. John A. McMahon is not guilty of the charge against him of murdering A. N. Cederlof at Lelihu on September 28, and that Cederlof was shot during a struggle in which he was the aggressor and in which he tried to shoot McMahon, was the statement made by Attorney Lorrin Andrews, appearing for the defense, to the jury this morning, when the hearing of the case was continued before Judge Clemens in the Federal Court.

The morning was full of sensations. First the fact was brought out that the ring taken from Cederlof's finger could not have been burned in the way it was unless the flame from the revolver had been close enough to make the marks. Then followed a denial by Mrs. McMahon of the statements made on the witness stand by Mrs. Cederlof, widow of the dead civilian clerk. She denies practically in toto all the evidence given by that witness. Describing the shooting, she says that Cederlof walked out to the gate very quickly and that after he got outside he called McMahon a name and then grabbed him. She saw the man struggling and then, being frightened, she turned and ran. As she got to the house she heard the shots, screamed and ran through to the back, where she tripped and fell out of the door. She was picked up by McMahon and she asked him if he had shot Cederlof. He said that he did not know, and that they had better go and see.

Breaks Down on Stand.

The fact that McMahon was always in the habit of carrying a gun and had a perfect right to do so was also brought out. During the time she was on the stand Mrs. McMahon broke down. Sitting in the witness stand, she looked a little like a girl, and the sun coming through the window lit up her fair hair and added to this effect. The big tears glistened on her cheeks. Watching his wife from his chair, McMahon also broke down under the strain and the tears rolled down his face too.

Lieutenant Heller testified that he was an expert pistol shot. It is impossible to tell what chamber the hammer was on when it was fired. On being shown the ring placed in evidence and supposed to be taken from Cederlof's finger after the shooting, the

An ounce of preparation for the Floral Parade now is worth a pound of hurry later on.

Now is the time when prices are won in the Floral Parade next February. An hour spent now and then in planning a design for the decorated auto will win the trophy later.

And many a man never realizes the value of his home until he has occasion to collect the fire insurance.

MCCANDLESS MAN HEADS UNION; POLITICAL MOVE

Link McCandless and his political followers have finally succeeded in getting control of the Hui Union, the local labor union, according to reports, and the reports are borne out by the fact that one of McCandless' chief lieutenants, John H. Wilson, has been named general manager of the union.

Wilson was elected, unanimously it is said, at a meeting of the union held last Monday night, and tonight he will be installed in office with considerable ceremony. A big luau is to be held at

LORD-YOUNG CO. LOSES JOB

WASHINGTON, D. C., Dec. 7.—The Navy Department has awarded the contract for the big storehouse at Pearl Harbor to the W. N. Conannon Company, of San Francisco. The administration building contract will be readvertised.

The Lord-Young company was the only local bidder and was believed to have an excellent chance of landing this naval station job. The San Francisco firm's bid for the storehouse was $90,183, the appropriation being $100,000. All of the administration building bids were over the appropriation of $50,000.

"CAMP COWLES" FOR THE MARINES NO CUT IS WHAT UNDERWOOD SAYS

Camp Cowles is to be the official name of the encampment at Pearl Harbor which will be taken up by the marine battalion of the Pacific fleet Monday next.

Admiral Cowles has rendered invaluable assistance and has extended courtesies which have made the encampment at Pearl Harbor possible, said Major Hill, fleet marine officer, this morning, "and it is highly appropriate that the camp should be named after him. The commandant has offered us the use of the station tug, the Nautilus, and the civil engineers have given us every facility to make the camp successful. I hope and believe that Camp Cowles will be a credit to the officer for whom it is named."

The marine battalion will go into camp Monday, and will remain ashore during the greater part of the fleet's stay here. In order to meet with Admiral Thomas ideas of giving every officer, bluejacket and marine in the fleet a chance to see the volcano, all marines who wish to make the trip to Hilo will be given leave to accompany their ships. Major Hill believes that possibly two-thirds of his command will wish to see Kilauea, while the remaining third will elect to stay in camp and save their money.

The next few days will be busy ones for the battalion commander and Lieutenant Utley, the adjutant. There are a hundred and one details to be attended to so as to insure sanitation and comfort for the 350 men who will be under canvas. Shower baths, water system, piped from a main given us every facility to make the camp successful. I hope and believe that Camp Cowles will be a credit to the officer for whom it is named."

There will be hikes and practice marches to inland points, and probably a short encampment at Lelihu under shelter tents, for half the command at a time with a march from there to Haleiwa.

MORE DEATHS IN SOLDIERS HELD IMMIGRANT FAMILIES TO BLAME HERE

One death last night and one this morning was the toll taken from the immigrants of the stricken ship Wilkeson, and according to reports this afternoon, two more deaths from small-pox are likely to occur.

Dr. Ramus, chief quarantine officer, at noon gave out the facts to date as follows:

Total number of small-pox cases, 54.

Total number of measles cases 53.

Deaths last night and this morning were those of children, one being due to measles and one to mal-nutrition.

Three more nurses have been called for, bringing the total up to 9.

Two more guards employed, total now 32.

About 500 immigrants still left on Wilkeson, all to be taken off today and tomorrow.

Another riot between soldiers and civilians though not reported to the police, broke out last night in a tenement building near Aala Park. The trouble, according to a civilian was started by the soldiers, who wanted to enter the rooms of the Hawaiian tenants.

It was during the evening that the soldiers in uniforms went to the rooms of the Hawaiian families. The husbands told the soldiers to get out. The fight followed. The Hawaiians were worsted, according to reports.

Gomes May Not Live.

Were it not for the intervention of friends who broke into the bathroom and turned off the switch, Mr. and Mrs. A. Martin, who are wintering in Honolulu, would have been presented with an electric light bill of appalling size upon their return to their home in Vancouver.

A local nurse, whose home is in Vancouver, received a letter by the Honolulu Tuesday in which she was told to hunt up Mr. and Mrs. Martin and tell them that when they left their home to take the boat for Honolulu several weeks ago, they neglected to turn off the bathroom light. She was
